Concept Note/ Objective

The weird present, plagued with the constant phobia of imminent death has forced us into deeper philosophical and ontological uncertainties. We wake up each morning as if to play dice with Death. One may recall here the cinematographic image of Bergman's The Seventh Seal in which the Knight endeavors to checkmate Death. The hauntology and scare of death tend to corrode all our epistemic foundational planks. Unmooring us, thus, from some of our strongly held political and cultural certainties and triumphalism of modernity, it has led to gloom, anxiety, ennui and terror – a Nietzschean version of nihilism. But is not dejection also an ontological precondition to creatively re-imagine our futures? Who are our sokhas/inmates who can embalm our current Bergmanian 'cries and whispers'? Who can ferry us across this current crisis of disease, global socio-political disorder and death? What lessons can we derive from similar troubles in the past? How can our poets, philosophers, artists and critical thinkers help us rebuild our bare and fragile existence? Does the present crisis also promise a leap to a new political future beyond the torturous visions of the current myopia? Can we think beyond our normative frames of western modernity and capitalist plunder? Can a new culture of faith heal our wounds and re-enchant the world? This colloquium seeks to explore possible pathways in these troubled times.

Outcome of the Colloquium and Panel Discussion:

The objectives of the web-colloquium and panel discussion are successfully met and the participants benefitted from lively discussions on issues relating to the socio-cultural and political fallout of the ongoing pandemic. The outcome of the web-colloquium and panel discussion can be summarized thus:

- a. One primary objective of both the colloquium and the panel discussion was to take stock of the implications of the 'crisis' thrust upon us by the pandemic for socio-cultural, intellectual and political spheres. The esteemed speakers and panelists discussed the issues pertaining to the 'crisis' and presented their perspectives about the futures that are to emerge post-pandemic.
- b. Speakers delivered their talk from variety of perspectives- from historical to the literary to the sociological- on the 'crisis' that helped the participants, specially the students, very much to understand the present 'troubled times' in historical and cultural contexts.

- c. There were deliberations on the thoughts of 'our' thinkers- poets, social and political thinkers such as Tagore or the great poet of Mahabharata- in battling the present 'crisis' and their imagining a new future.
- d. The panel discussion on Politics Now stimulated discussions on the political implication of the present 'crisis', how the authoritarian regimes across the globe are using it to impose their hold and how it also exposes the present capitalist model of development generating hopes of a post-capitalist social order. The panel discussion was extremely helpful in thinking through the politics –both during and after the pandemic.
