

Gour Mahavidyalaya

Department of Bengali

Program outcome

- PO-1. This course charts the development of Bengali language and literature from its inception (10th century Ad) to the 20th century. It provides details knowledge about the interdisciplinary nature of literature by combining the taught texts with heir socio cultural and political context to build a comprehensive idea about the social and cultural life of Bengal through history.
- PO-2. The language teaching aspects of the course focus on the origin and development of Bengali language from charyapada to modern linguistics beyond theory, student are introduced to critically analyze changing patterns in literary language by using textual examples from different literary period.
- PO-3. The program also provides introductory courses in Bengali literature to student from their departments to create a basic appreciation for Bengali literary and cultural heritage.
- PO-4 The program includes some communicative Bengali courses aimed at preparing he students for effective and functional communication in their future professional careers.
- PO-5 This under graduate program aims to create a fundamental knowledge base that aids the student in pursuing higher education in the same discipline as wee as other post graduate program , such as e comparative literature, journalism and mass communication, media studies, performing arts (primarily the theater department) etc.
- PO-6 this program also creates various employment opportunities for the students such as school teaching, employment in various print and electronic media houses as well as in the creative sector of screen writing in film and television industry.