Q. Write short notes on 'Social Control'.

Social control refers to the process by which society or a significant part of it enforces its norms and values on its members. It is a mechanism that ensures that individuals conform to the expected behavior and attitudes of their society. Social control can be exercised through various means, including laws, customs, traditions, and social sanctions. It plays a crucial role in maintaining social order and stability.

Q. Write short notes on 'Social Structure'.

Social structure refers to the organized and enduring patterns of social relationships that shape and give meaning to human behavior. It is the framework of social institutions and relationships that form the basis of society. Social structure includes various elements such as social classes, social roles, and social institutions. It influences how individuals interact and how they perceive their social environment.
